METRO MASS TRANSIT RE-ASSURES GHANAISANS

The Management of Metro Mass has re-affirmed its determination to go World Class in its operations by 2018 despite a few challenges besetting the company lately.

The Management stated that those incidences would not deter the company from reaching its goal.

In a statement issued today, the Management implored the general public (particularly individuals and groups) who harbour a matter of redress, to contact it on Toll Free No. 0800-10-400 or personally, rather than attempt to paint the company black in some media.

“It is regrettable that certain people still do not appreciate the volume of social interventions rendered to the nation by Metro Mass”, the statement pointed out.

Early this year, close to 2,000 drivers nationwide have undergone re-training organized by MMT and the National Drivers’ Academy.

Metro Mass deeply regrets the incidences of road crashes involving two of its buses early this month, and consoles bereaved families.

The company also wishes the injured passengers speedy recovery and assures that it is dialoguing with Insurers on insurances due the victims.

The statement reminds its cherished passengers that MMT remains the safest and more reliable means of transport throughout the country notwithstanding.

Metro Mass was recently awarded the Best Transport Company for 2013 by the National Road Safety Commission.

The Company was in 2012 also recognized by the Madrid-based International Trade Club as the Best Transporter in Africa.

The Company has set in motion a Five-Year Strategic Plan aimed at propelling the company to World Class by 2018.

Passengers are advised to always insist on their tickets anytime they board an MMT bus.
